

Launching talk&surf

You can launch talk&surf via Autostart or the start menu. When talk&surf is started, it reads in the current entries and settings of the base station.

Autostart

When you power up your PC, talk&surf is started automatically in the background. The talk&surf monitor appears in the status area of the task bar.

➔ Double-click the talk&surf monitor icon to open the main program.

Deactivating Autostart

The talk&surf monitor is opened automatically every time you power up or reboot your PC. If you do not need talk&surf all the time, you can remove the talk&surf monitor from Autostart.

➔ Select Start > Programs > Autostart.

➔ Choose Delete to remove the link to the talk&surf monitor from Autostart.

Alternatively you can drag the link in the start menu to the Start > Programs > Gigaset folder.

Since talk&surf will no longer be opened automatically every time you start the PC, you will have to open it manually when you need it.

Launching talk&surf manually

If you have removed the program's Autostart function, you will have to start it manually.

➔ Select Start > Programs > Gigaset.
